

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Philosophy of Saul Kripke

Special Issue of the Romanian Journal of Analytic Philosophy

Guest Editor: Mircea Dumitru (University of Bucharest)

Saul Kripke is one of the most original contemporary philosophers. His epoch-making logic and philosophical works changed the face of contemporary analytic philosophy. The Romanian Journal of Analytic Philosophy is editing a special issue with exegetical and critical assessments of Kripke's achievements. We are looking for papers which explore the following topics of Kripke's work:

- philosophical logic
- philosophy of language
- epistemology
- theory of truth
- metaphysics
- Wittgenstein and meaning
- history of analytic philosophy
- linguistics

We are also looking for book reviews of the following: Saul A. Kripke, Philosophical Troubles. Collected Papers, Volume 1. Oxford University Press, 2011; G. W. Fitch, Saul Kripke, Acumen, 2004; Christopher Hughes, Kripke: Names, Necessity, and Identity, Oxford University Press, 2004; Arif Ahmed, Saul Kripke, Continuum, 2007.

Manuscripts must be submitted till 15th May, 2012. All submissions will go through the regular double-blind review process and follow the standard norms and processes.

For more information please contact the Special Issue Editors at redactia@srfa.ro or mircea.dumitru@unibuc.eu.

The Romanian Journal of Analytic Philosophy is a peer-review journal which aims to bring together the contributions of analytically oriented philosophers in every field of philosophy: metaphysics, logic, epistemology, philosophy of language, philosophy of mind, ethics, political philosophy, history of philosophy, aesthetics, etc. We use analytic philosophy „in a broad sense”, as it is proposed by the European Society of Analytic Philosophy.
